PRETTINESS

Screams rend the air and the powder puffs fly in sweet confusion. The judges have muffled the selection of the prettiest girl in the United States!

The scene of the battle was Baltimore, Maryland, and there were 47 in the fray. Peace was declared only after the most bitter fighting had ensued over charges of professionalism brought against some of the contestants and, most important of all, the winner, a lass from Buckeye Lake, Ohio. Imagine anyone accusing an Ohio beauty of being a professional "looker."

Another contest will be run off in the near future, because, after all, the easiest way out of a situation like that is to run your own contest and make the decisions to suit yourself, which is exactly the charge brought against the Baltimore gentlemen.

American girls must not be discouraged. There are still flowers to be plucked from the hearts of kind old bachelors who are appointed judges of pulchritude contests. No less an authority on the perfection of shapeliness than Mr. Earl Carroll, of bath tub fame, has declared that "no Miss America was chosen, because there was not a representative showing."

And, by the way, was there ever a so-called beauty contest which was a representative showing of American beauty? Do the most beautiful girls of all the millions of fair ladies in this richly endowed nation go in for that sort of thing? Is it starting to discover that some of them are amusement resort professionals whose only asset is their long distance attraction for the human eye?

An examination of Mr. Webster's definition of the terms "pretty" and "beautiful" reveal that to be beautiful there must be present, in a marked degree, qualities of grandeur, of loveliness and idealism. To be pretty, one has only to be attractive—has only to please the eye. If America must have its annual round of contests to select young ladies who please the taste of doubtful judges, let the competition be called by the proper title—Prettiness Contests. Beautiful girls do not disport themselves before the curious eyes of the multitude.

T. A. T. TRAGEDY

Discovery of the wrecked and burned City of San Francisco on the mountainside in desert New Mexico, already has caused tongues to wag and skeptics to declare that air transport never will be successful—that tragedy lurks everywhere for men and women who defy nature's laws and fly against gravity. But air transportation is not lost merely because a passenger plane crashes and its occupants are killed. Thousands of men and women and children meet death every year in motor car mishaps—yet the motor car is one of man's greatest aides. Hundreds are victims of railroad accidents each year—yet who is there to say that railroading is not successful?

There will be tragedies of the air a hundred years from now when the air transport has succeeded every other method of rapid travel. And people then will continue to predict that the day of the airplane is to be a short one. It is human nature to be skeptical. Perhaps it is a good trait. It keeps some of us more or less cautious, where a world of rash-acting folk might get us into trouble.

But one airplane crash like the City of San Francisco doesn't any more spell the end of air transportation for passenger ships than one motor accident means the end of the automobile. The age of air travel is at hand—and it will grow, and keep on growing.

The first arrest for the counterfeiting of one of the new small-size bills is reported from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where a traveling salesman was apprehended the first time he attempted to pass a poorly-executed counterfeit of the $10 note of the Kansas City Federal Reserve bank.

made by the photomechanical process. Mechanical invention has come along a lot, but up to date it has not turned out a good counterfeit of the engraver's skill.

Former President Coolidge says that "more security will be found in moderate force which menaces nobody than in a great force which menaces everybody," and for the life of us we can't decide whether he is talking in favor of cutting down our naval program or the disarming of the dry agents.

What Others Say

AN UNWELCOME DECLINE

The decrease in the number of national banks and in their resources as reported by J. W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, is primarily the result of recent consolidations in New York and Chicago in which national charters have been surrendered. The decision of these billion-dollar institutions to operate under state charters, instead of national, is itself proof that the national banking act, in spite of recent revisions, is still rigid and less favorable than the banking codes of many states.

From the public point of view the decline in the position of national banks at a time when our total banking resources are increasing is of importance primarily as it effects the Federal Reserve system. National banks must belong to the system; state banks may but need not belong. Thus to the extent that a large share of our total banking resources are represented by state institutions may the power and prestige of the system be reduced.

Up to this time the system has lost few banks through consolidation, but in the last six months several of the large New York banks, resenting the Federal's campaign to control credit, have given serious thought to withdrawing in order to be free from Federal Reserve supervision, and particularly to be able to make stock market loans without restrictions.

In the event of many withdrawals the Federal Reserve would lose first of all its dominant position in banking and with it the measure of credit control which it now exercises, and for the increase of which it has lately been fighting. And there would be lost in addition the unification and coordination in our banking structure that the system has provided since its creation fifteen years ago.

A few national banks, among them two in Cleveland, have overcome one of the disadvantages under which they operate by the creation of separate security companies. More will doubtless follow. But the character of the banking business has changed so markedly in the last few years that further revision of the law is doubtless desirable. The decrease in national banking assets will not long escape the attention of congress.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TEACH BENEFITS OF
SUN AND RIGHT FOODBY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
(United States Senator from New York)

We are beginning to appreciate more than ever that sunshine has the most beneficial effect on the health. All of us should plan to be out in the sun part of each day. Children and young people require perfect health for their future work in the world. If they are to have it they must be taught the value of sunshine.

But there is another way too, to aid the necessary building-up process to make us strong and fit. That is the diet.

A report made at a meeting of the Atlantic City of noted physicians interested in tuberculosis, cited the fact that there had been a great increase recently in tuberculosis among young women.

These men believe that diet and late hours are the principal causes of this increase.

It is their belief, also, that many other constitutional disturbances are traceable to improper diet. Since the fad of reducing, like that of any other fad, has been carried to extremes, many young women have impaired their health by the rigid requirement of rapid reduction.

This is a serious matter. Young girls at adolescence are often on the border line of anemia. In some cases it has already begun. At no other time is proper food more important than during this growing and developing period.

Anemia is a condition brought about by a lack of red blood corpuscles. Sometimes it is temporary but often it becomes more or less permanent. This type is known as pernicious anemia. The first thing to do when anemia is suspected is to consult your physician for a thorough examination.

There are many diseases in which proper diet is essential. But tuberculosis and anemia stand out as those most commonly found.

Special experiments have been made with foods that will supply the right properties to aid in the building up of the red corpuscles. Liver ranks first for a blood building food. It may be a calf's, hog's

HT FAIR FOR 30 PLANNED IN COLUMBIANA CO.

Nights of Entertainment To Be Provided In Lisbon

It has been definitely determined that the Columbiana County Agricultural Society will have a night fair in Lisbon next year that will last for at least five nights. The fair grounds have already been secured and much preliminary work has to do with a night fair already being spent. The night fair will be featured by a variety of acts, and these events will be in plain view of the grandstand. Whether the race program will be held next year is a matter the fair board will determine at its next meeting. Howard Sinclair and H. Rogers, members of the fair board first suggested the night fair be held, and when the fair was placed before the members an agreement to hold the night fair in 1930 was quickly made. Members of the fair board expressed the night fair rodeo and at all fairs where this has been included the attendance at night has been about the same of the day. It also has been pointed out by board members that many people attend a night fair where it is impossible for them to attend during the day. Total attendance for the week would be much increased. The proceeds for the rodeo have been set for the 1930 fair, and it is the first time that such an event in Columbiana county.

Gray, Cadiz, of the Ohio House of Representatives, will assume his new duties as state bank superintendent September 15. It is announced today that Gray is a Republican. Beetham, also of Cadiz, and a Republican, is "indispensable" in his present position. Beetham was a resignee candidate for the post of banking superintendent. Mr. Gray came into this appointment fortified with the heavy qualifications for the fulfillment of the obligations encountered upon him," said Governor Cooper. In private life he has been only engaged in various business pursuits, chief of which is banking. He has been identified with the National Bank of Cadiz 15 years.

Crew Of One In Small Boat Tossed In Lake Erie 2 Days

Cleveland, Sept. 11.—William Roque, 48, of Pt. Huron, Mich., who was rescued from Lake Erie late yesterday after having been tossed helplessly for 36 hours in a 32-foot cabin cruiser when it ran out of gasoline, checked the gas tank carefully today and prepared to resume his water journey to Detroit. Roque had been buffeted about in the cabin cruiser by lake storm waves for two days before he was sighted by the stone carrier, T. W. Robertson, which went to the rescue and towed the distressed craft to Cleveland. "It's provoking to find you're out of gasoline in an automobile," Roque said today. "But it's worse than that to be out of gasoline and riding the waves in a boat."

Of this total 228 were in the high school, 454 in the grade schools at Leetonia, and 230 in the grades at Washingtonville. Two hundred and thirty is ten more than the Washingtonville schools cared for at any time last year.

Supt. E. P. Stonebraker is in charge of the consolidated schools with a corps of 27 teachers as follows:

Teachers Listed
High school—Ray E. Whinnery, principal.

Teachers—Miss Amy Shinn, Miss Hazel Bechtold, Miss Glarabel Bickel, Miss Doris Shoop, Miss Florence Wilhelm, Miss Ruff, Mr. Fowler and Chester Riley.

North Side grade schools—Miss Palmer, Mrs. Moore, Miss Mitchell and Mrs. McNulty.

South Side grade schools—Miss Rauch, principal; Miss McCormick, Miss Gunther, Miss Hart, Miss Fritz, Miss Barker, Miss Louis and Miss Bates.

Washingtonville grade schools—Miss Fitzsimmons, principal; Mrs. Girard, Miss Hasler, Miss Weber, Mr. Justice and Mrs. Ansevin.

There are five fewer teachers employed for the district than before the consolidation, but Supt. Stonebraker states the schools are not crowded.

Four new buses have been put in operation and the initial trips were made in less than an hour. The capacity of each bus is 51 passengers, but this many will not be carried. Twenty-two children from the Jersey Ridge school are cared for at the Washingtonville school and are conveyed there over the Y. & O. R. trolley.

Twenty-eight children from Stops 23, 25, 22 and 21 south of Leetonia, are conveyed to Leetonia in the same way.

Shelter houses will be provided for these children at the stops where they board the trolleys.

Lisbon will begin next week to transport children from certain parts of Center township to the Lisbon schools. These children will be conveyed in the buses which regularly travel the route.

CHINESE WAR

Kiang Mullin and other border towns.

According to official advices, more than 60 Chinese were killed in the first assault upon Poganrichnaya. Twenty of these are reported to have been victims of bombs hurled from airplanes.

The Sungari river has been mined by Chinese troops to ward off an attack from that source. The Nationalist troops are reported to be holding their positions by means of heavy machine-gun and trench mortar fire.

London, Sept. 11.—The objective of the Soviet advance into Manchurian territory is believed to be the rich coal district surrounding Mullin, on which the Chinese depend for railway fuel, according to a dispatch from Mukden to the Daily Mail today.

The Bolshevik attack has now shifted from the western to the eastern front. The dispatch continues, owing to the apparent success of the Chinese defenders on the western battle line in spite of the strong force of advancing Soviet troops.

A Mukden dispatch to the Times states that Poganrichnaya has suffered extremely from the Soviet attacks. The main section of the railway station, the radio plant, telegraph, telephone and the military transport offices have been destroyed by bombs flung from Soviet planes.

The entire staff of the Chinese Eastern railway has been withdrawn from Poganrichnaya and Mullin as a result of the aerial attacks.

Soviet gunboats are reported active near the junction of the Sungari and Amur rivers.

Soviet land forces on the northern frontier are accused of shelling Manchurian positions without warning, according to dispatches from Chinese sources.

THE HOME KITCHEN

—By Jeannette Young Norton

Shrimp can be served at almost any point in the dinner. Chilled, it's an appetizing cocktail to begin with. Or, it may be a hot canape (or entree) or combined with rice and vegetables as a main dish, or served cold as a salad.

Shrimps are obtainable in most city markets fresh for a good part of the year, but at all times can be purchased in tins or jars. Canned shrimps should be washed in cold water and allowed to stand for a few moments after removal from the can. To prepare fresh shrimps, throw them in a kettle containing several quarts of water to which 3 tablespoons of salt have been added. Let them simmer over a slow fire for 20 minutes. (The shrimp are white when fresh, turning pink almost immediately after turning the boiling water.) After 20 minutes dump into a colander and let cold water run through them. Then the shell slips off easily, and the shrimps should be put in a cold place until ready to serve.

Shrimp Cocktail

2 tablespoons ketchup
2 tablespoons chopped pickles or relish
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated horseradish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
Mix these ingredients and keep well chilled. Cocktail glasses should also be kept chilled. Just before serving, place a few shrimps in the glass, add a spoonful of this sauce and mix well.

Shrimp Canape or Entree

1 pound shrimps
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 canned pineapple
10 teaspoon salt
10 teaspoon curry
The shrimps should first be cooked and chilled. Melt the butter

METAL EXPERTS SEE CLEVELAND

National Congress Will Close Sessions Tonight; Predict Progressive Era

Cleveland, Sept. 11.—Metal technicians who are here as delegates to the 11th annual national metal congress were taken on inspection tours of Cleveland's leading industrial plants today.

Following the tour, technical sessions of the five societies composing the metal congress, were resumed.

G. V. Luerssen of Reading, Pa., pointed out to delegates yesterday that the speeding up of mass production has revolutionized the manufacture of cutting machine tools. Particularly, he said, is this true in the automotive industry.

The automobile and airplane industries have created a race between the makers of machine tools and the makers of tool steels. Luerssen said, "Industry, because of the speeding up of mass production, has been forced to demand longer life of the tools used to cut harder and stronger metals."

The national metal exposition which has been held concurrently with the metal congress, is scheduled to close tonight at 10 p. m.

Ditto resided at Greenup during the past two years. His widow, from whom he was separated, is Mrs. Lattie Ditto, of Covington, Ky.

GERMANY

Americans are "dollar chasers." Should one take the time to get down to brass tacks on the subject he would find that those who make such statements are not at all informed as to the true condition of affairs, nor are they familiar with the temperament of the American people. The mere fact that an individual is rich, or that a country, is possessed of great wealth is the result of an inherent greed for money.

Those who look at the United States with the desire to apply logic and reason, and with a practical appreciation of her extraordinary achievements, will undoubtedly find that money is not primarily the end which is sought but rather the result of the kind and quality of service that is rendered; of the quality and pride of the goods or merchandise which the public finds it to its advantage to buy.

Creates Ideals

Advertising of itself is a creator of ideals. It could not have made the splendid progress that it has if this were not the case. It constantly places the advertiser in the position of striving to improve his product or his service, and through the competition which advertising itself creates to find that what was the standard of so-called perfection yesterday is not perfection today. A natural consequence of this condition has placed American industry and business in the position of applying standards of service and merchandise before they may count the money return.

One need not go very far to find many clear examples of the operation of this economic principle. Perhaps one of the most impressive ones may be found in that of the automobile industry. And this becomes even more impressive when one begins to compare its development with that in Europe. But 25 years ago the automobile industry was a negligible quantity in the United States; today it is our leading industry. This tremendous development did not just happen. It came into being because American industry, backed by the power of advertising, willed that it should find a place in the social, commercial, industrial, financial and economic affairs of the nation. Its progress and present state of development could not possibly have been accomplished without the help and influence of advertising; and the competition in the advertisements of the various manufacturers compelled constant improvement in the type, kind and quality of motor vehicles.

American Code Strict

If one will look at the matter in its true light he will find that American business and industry operates upon a very strict code of ideals and that it is fundamental to the success of every advertising campaign that such realism be adhered to regardless. If it is a matter of lessening the quality and letting down on the ideals which the advertising itself professes, or of maintaining the quality and sticking to the ideal, you will find that the American will adhere to the latter principle even though it costs him money out of pocket to do it, or he will quickly find cheaper ways of doing the same thing so the quality and ideals may be maintained.

Any student of American business and industry will readily concede that we are not so-called "dollar chasers" as so many Europeans conscientiously believe; that we have definite ideals and that those ideals are constantly advanced as each ideal is realized by the products of our hands and heart and head come into being. He will find, too, I am sure, that the great motor manufacturers are vastly more interested in the quality of their product than they are in the price it may bring. With them quality is always first and price is secondary, and this because an industry founded on advertising could not survive otherwise.

The future economic status of Europe depends, primarily, upon the progress which advertising may make and how its effect is reflected in commercial and industrial production. American penetration in Europe, backed by unlimited financial resources, could easily advance the cause of advertising beyond any point reached by Europe. A great factor in advancing European standards and ideal and of increasing wealth, as it has in the United States.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

—By Wanda Barton

A couple of oranges a day are now urged as much as the justly famed apple a day—by doctors as well as fruit growers. And everyone likes orange juice—look at the fortunes made out of orange drinks by commercial firms.

But preparing orange juice properly is a job. There's no joy in a tall tumbler of orange fluid which is largely pulp and pip. Better eat the orange whole than try to drink it in this stewed-fruit stage. Orange juice at its best is clear, chilled juice (and it should be chilled not by the addition of ice but because the oranges have been kept in a cold place).

The equipment used at some soda fountains caused many a housekeeper envy—press a button, rest the halved oranges on the reamer and electricity did the rest. This electric squeezer, however, was too large and too expensive for family use. Now, however, this has been

Quarrelling Church Is Hit By Lightning

Brownstown, Ind., Sept. 11.—Gerbert Chapel, halfway between Freeland and Kurtz, near here, was a mass of blackened ruins today following an "act of God" according to some of the chapel worshippers who were said to have prayed for the destruction of the church. Lightning struck the building!

The little church was said to have been the source of dispute between Rev. Albert Gerbert, the pastor, and Alva and Lawrence Warner. From this dispute arose such bitter feelings that the case even reached a justice court where the minister was acquitted on a surety of the peace clause.

The trouble was said to have caused a split in the congregation and some of the more conservative members, prayed, it was reported, for the destruction of the building, thus putting an end to the bone of contention.

Believe it or not, but a black cloud came up and from it flashed a bolt that struck the church burning it down and disposing of the subject of the controversy.

Whether the prayers were made or not, the Gerbert Chapel edifice was no more today.

Dayton, O. Sept. 11.—A coroner's investigation was being held here today relative to an auto accident which caused the death of Lester Maxton, 21. The accident occurred July 8.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, Sept. 11.—The accent will be on the accessories this winter according to the Paris dress-makers who are showing their newest creations at the present moment.

Bright red shoes are chic with evening frocks of dead black and the darkest shades of green, blue or white, always in the form of a plain pump or crepe de chine or satin.

Elbow length gloves in the same shade are worn to match them. One dealer has a fondness of putting crimson kid gloves with his white evening frocks, with shoes to match.

Sheerest stockings in gun-metal tint come with all-black evening gowns and pure white ones with the white. There are a few new shades in hosiery, the most recent being to match the color of the sun-burned skin.

Little collars and jabots of lace or embroidered mull at the necks of afternoon and day frocks tend to further femininity, as well as necklaces and bracelets of crystal in pure white and colors.

There are necklaces and bracelets designed to wear with tweed morning costumes in beads of all kinds.

braided in ropes or in single strings in flat discs of shining brass or nickel and in bars of highly-polished wood with metal bands.

A necklace without its necklace is almost unheard of this season. One designer makes charming china and Venetian glass flowers to put the brightest touch on many of his new gowns. Another favors diamonds, mealy real. Precious semi-precious or sham ornaments are as necessary to the perfection of line and color as the skirt is to the bodice.

Jewelry are showing necklaces and bracelets that are half red coral and half crystal, with earrings that are also half in half, one red one and the other in crystal.

Paris, Sept. 11.—The browns will be with us next winter if one can judge from the recent approval of the various tones of this popular color. It seems to be the natural sequence of Paris' yearning for yellow all this spring and summer.

Brown ensembles have been as thick as autumn leaves at the smart race meetings, especially at Chantilly where it blended so beautifully with the background of forest. The Misses Ann and Caroline Storrs of New York also wore brown at the Steepchase at Auteuil, with small brown straw turbans.

Small patterned printed crepes and smooth-faced silks are very popular in brown. One dealer is showing one with a three-quarter coat straight and end with the high-standing collar he is featuring this season. The frock worn beneath has a high waistline and pleated crepe in the skirt of the crown crepe with a small flowered pattern in yellow, red, orange and white.

"Framboisine" is a printed brown ensemble with long coat slightly flaring, the standing collar and cuffs sleeves covering a simple frock of the same material with a plain brown collar edged with beige which is longer on one side than on the other. This is of heavy smooth silk with an indeterminate pattern in beige and yellow. The lining of the coat is brown crepe like the collar of the frock. Mrs. Honore Palmer is wearing it.

A particularly practical costume for the summer motor tour comes in tobacco-brown jersey the jacket lined with bright yellow in the same material. The skirt of the one-piece frock is of brown and the bodice of white jersey attached with diagonal bands of the brown and yellow. The jacket has a striking yellow scarf.

Low Point in Steel Demand Passing Pittsburgh, Sept. 11.—While background to the steel industry is that the low point in the demand for steel may have been reached, the Iron Age will say steel market is not yet over.

The 400,000 tons are expected to says. However, it was pointed out that the extent of the increase in demand is estimated and "these developments have come too late to prevent a further decline in steel works output."

Koniola Ends 8 Year Search For Real Remedy Stomach and Kidney Troubles Had Long Defied Every Other Medicine and Treatment Tried

MR. PETER KANOS
"For eight painful years I sought in vain for a medicine to relieve me of stomach and kidney trouble," said
Mr. Peter Kanos, 1732 E. 34th St., Lorain, Ohio. "After every meal I filled up with gas and acute pain centered in the pit of my stomach after every meal. Kidney trouble showed severe back pains. Constipation added greatly to my misery."
A friend of mine recommended
Koniola and insisted that I try it.
After one month — I took just one bottle — every one of my troubles vanished. Constipation ended first, then the indigestion ended next, and the kidneys were restored. I am eating anything I like, sleeping soundly at night, and the kidney pains are gone. The physician who called this the master remedy certainly knew what he was talking about."

Koniola is sold in Salem, O., at all

Better Airplanes In Next Five Years

Buffalo, Sept. 11.—Before the next five years have passed into history, the airplane will have been so radically improved and developed that the average man and woman will be enabled to pilot it successfully, with less training than is now necessary to learn the operation of an automobile. It was predicted here recently by James H. Stinson, assistant general manager of the General Aircraft Corporation.

Stinson added that design improvements now under way will make it possible for the average airplane to land at the speed measured in but a few feet or yards per hour, rather than in miles per hour.
"You and I as laymen with no previous flying experience," he said,
"will walk into the manufacturer's salesroom, purchase our ship, say, at 10 o'clock in the morning, and fly it away two or three hours later, with perfect safety and assurance."
"To date, one of the greatest handicaps which the airplane has encountered, in making a practical universal appeal, has been its inability to land at very low speeds, thus necessitating piloting by the trained expert flyer. Overcome this one difficulty—and we shall see it eliminated very shortly—and we shall see flying by the general public as popular and as common as is automobile driving today."

Cubs' Ability To Hit Southpaws Makes Them Series Favorites

Macks No Easy Mark For Chicago, Though According To Walsh

By DAVIS J. WALSH

Utah, Sept. 11.—Everybody's malden aunt seems to be saying that the Philadelphia Athletics are going to be just a kick in the pants for the Chicago Cubs in the 1929 world series and maybe it is right, although it is my opinion that the last time every body was right was the day after the flood.

They agreed then that it looked like rain. Anyhow, this conspiracy of opinion in the case of the Cubs is more than significant. It is a sign that the Athletics are going to be a headstrong man just as much as the Cubs. Besides, he is everything in his favor now.

They have picked him to lose almost a month in advance of the game, so he can't go wrong if he wins right and if he wins they are wrong. This is a very amusing thing when indulged in by players and spectators, its fascination being in the fact that nobody has a chance. However, where Connie Mack gets a real break is that he is not trying to call it. He has proved that nobody can call it, particularly when they attempt to say what will happen a month before it can happen.

Cubs Hit Southpaws

I know that some genius has discovered that the Cubs hit left handed pitchers better than the Athletics. The Athletics' pitching staff is largely cockeyed, speaking neither visually nor literally but in a dexterous sense but what of it? The ball club that is right at the time that the series is played is the ball club that wins it, regardless of how many people may disagree with the victory.

Were the Cubs supposed to lose to the White Sox in 1906? They were not. Did they lose? They did. The Sox had great pitching and they hit in the pinches. They were right, so were the Athletics against the Cubs in 1910. Although nobody outside of Philadelphia gave them a chance. The famous Proved-Athletic series of 1914 proved for all time just what a chump club could do with a great one when the great one inspires it. I have always felt, too, that perhaps the Cincinnati Reds didn't need the connivance of the Black Sox in the 1919 series.

The Sox were a great club and the Reds no better than merely good, yet the latter might have won even if both of them were leveling. The Reds were thoroughly sold on themselves and that idea is always hard to beat.

The left handed angle this year is not conclusive. It merely is one thing in favor of the Cubs, a more or less important angle but not nearly so much so as psychology and any break. The latter cannot be predetermined, but the psychology of a series can be and usually is. Everything else being equal, it rides with the club that has the most incentive to win and for a sincere, compelling urge, personally. I like the Cubs a bit at this juncture, largely, admit, because of the left handed situation in Philadelphia. But even with this the Cubs are a good bet only until such time as they remain convinced that it is entirely possible for them to lose.

Landis Lists Cubs Eligible In Series

Chicago, Sept. 11.—The following were named by Commissioner of Baseball Landis here Tuesday afternoon as eligible for the coming world's series:

Chicago—Joseph V. McCarthy, manager; James Burke and Grover Land, coaches.

Players: Clyde Beck, Clarence Blair, J. Fred Blake, Guy Bush, Harold Carlson, Hazen Cuyler, Mike Cvetogros, Elwood English, Mike Gonzales, Henry Gramp Jr., Charles Grimm, C. Leo Hartnett, Clifton Heathcote, Rogers Hornsby, Pat Malone, Norman McMillan, John Moore, Art Nehf, Kenneth Penner, Charles Root, John Schulte, J. Riggs Stephenson, James W. Taylor, Charles Tolson, Lewis Wilson.

Fight Results

At Jersey City—Al Ridgway won ten round decision from Jose Martinez.

At Newark—Young Mitchell, Chester, Pa., won ten round decision from Freddie Polo, Bloomfield, N. J.

At Allentown—Jose Diaz, Cuban lightweight, knocked out Larry Roach, Newark, in second round (10).

Eddie Pheister, New York, won on a foul in the second round from Buddy Burke, Chester, Pa.

At Pittsburgh—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, won a decision over K. O. (Bobby) Brown, also of New York.

At New York—Art DeChamplain outpointed Sammy Tach in 10 rounds at Twenty-Second Engineers armory.

Jack Sharkey, Philadelphia, knocked out Joe Rocco in second round (18).

Macks Trim Indians

Philadelphia, following their 6 to 4 win over the Indians need only a more victory to assure participation in the world series. Had the rain washed out the second game the A's might be even closer to the pennant, glory and money.

Collins and Coffman being in fine form, the St. Louis Browns took the end of a twin bill from the Red Sox, 6-1, 1-0. Collins allowed four hits, Coffman six.

Chicago and Washington were tied out.

In the National—Larry Benton and Jack Scott were shooting just as Cincinnati ordered so the Reds dropped their final game with the Red Sox, 7 to 5.

Pittsburgh trimmed Brooklyn, 7 to 4, starting out as a pitchers' battle. The game ended with both clubs hitting everything but the mascot. Only two National games scheduled.

Ardent Rooter For Macks In Convent

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Connie Mack, the fighting pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics, has lost his most ardent rooter, just as the team is about to make its long awaited appearance in a world series.

Miss Mary Cornelia McGillicuddy, Connie's daughter, has entered the convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph, at Chestnut Hill, members of the family admitted here today.

"Mary has turned aside from the world forever," Mrs. McGillicuddy said. "Although she has always loved the game of baseball, she will not get to see her father's team play in the world series. She has always thought that her mission in life lay in religious work."

TERRIERS DROP FIRST TILT TO QUINCY OUTFIT

Canton, O., Sept. 11.—The Canton Terriers of the Central Ohio baseball league hoped to take the second game of the class "B" baseball series today, after losing a sensational game in the tenth inning yesterday to Quincy of the Three-Eye league, by a 14-10 score.

The winners of the Central league pennant trailed the Illini for seven innings, then made a run on the bases to tie the score in the eighth. The score was still tied at the end of the ninth, then the champions of the Three-Eye league went on a batting spree which netted four runs.

Lindstrom, Canton's starting pitcher, was knocked out of the box before he had hurled two innings. His wildness was responsible for Quincy's seven runs in the second frame.

New Ohio Conference Ruling Delays Practices For Week

At least 15 Ohio university and college teams began the second day of the early practice session throughout the state today while members of the Ohio conference delayed the opening of their pre-season training until next Monday.

The 18 members of the conference were scheduled to begin training yesterday but a last minute check of the rules disclosed the fact that practice cannot begin until Sept. 15, in penalty of suspension for one year or more.

Carroll Progress Slow

Cleveland.—Although the blue streaks of John Carroll university have not made the progress expected of them at their training camp at Lake Stafford, Coach Ralph Vince may find compensation in his unusual backfield material. With six or seven promising backs fighting for berth, the Irish are destined to have one of the best backfields since the days of Parilla and Marrie.

Bearcats Taste Rain

Cincinnati.—Rain yesterday gave more than 75 gridders at the University of Cincinnati a real taste of the football season. The entire squad was given a stiff drill in spite of the sloppy field.

Ted Martin Hurt

Springfield.—Even lettermen are included among the 41 candidates for the Wittenberg college football team, co-holders of the 1928 title of Buckeye association who are being given stiff daily workouts by Coach Stobbs and Hermann. The first injury of the season was suffered yesterday by Ted Marty of Akron, veteran end, who bruised his shoulder.

Veteran Missing

Delaware.—Ted Franz, of Ashland, Ky. halfback of the Ohio Wesleyan grid team, was the only veteran missing from the initial practice of the squad yesterday, as a record turn-out of 44 players greeted the coaches. A two-mile run for each potential member of the team was a feature of the first workout. The battling bishops are not greatly handicapped by losses from graduation, and Coach George Gauthier is determined to have a clean cut championship this year.

Three Panthers At Ohio

Adams.—Three competent punters have answered the prayers of Coach Don Peden at Ohio university, thus brushing away his biggest worry. Good showings were made by William Kepler, Gerald Strayer, sophomores, and Ray Hart, veteran halfback. The Bobcats held yesterday's practice session in a sea of mud during a heavy rain which lasted most of the day.

Montreal—The new "9,000" oil-electric locomotive of the Canadian National Railways recently made its initial run hauling the second section of the International Limited, Montreal to Toronto and Chicago. The 600-ton, two-unit engine can develop a tractive force of 100,000 pounds in acceleration and maintain a 42,000 pound force.

Connie Mack Outstanding Figure In World Series

BY HENRY McLEMORE

New York, Sept. 11.—Barring flood, fire or pestilence, Philadelphia and Chicago will meet early in October in the world series.

And despite the teams of copy tumbling out of typewriters concerning the drama that will be afforded the cash customers when such stars as Hornsby, Wilson, Simmons and Fox begin going through their tricks on the same field, the real drama of the 1929 baseball classic will be furnished by a tall, spare, wrinkled old gentleman sitting in the Philadelphia dugout. A man who for 15 years has waited patiently for the shifting fortunes of baseball to place him again at the head of a team fighting for the championship of the world.

Just as we thought you didn't need those other two guesses as to the identity of the man, for the trials and tribulations of Connie Mack, McGillicuddy nee Connie Mack since he disbanded that mighty team in the winter of 1914 are known wherever baseball is discussed. But what of the pre-1914 Mack? What about the man before he reached a place of eminence? Here's a brief review.

Born In Massachusetts

With the Civil war still three years to go (if you know your history that one should be easy) Connie Mack was born in Brockfield, Mass.

Baseball became a business with him in 1884 when he signed as catcher with the Meriden, Conn. club. Either Meriden didn't like Connie or vice versa for the next year found him behind the bat for Hartford where he stayed until the fall end of the 1886 season when he shifted to the Washington club.

After five seasons with Washington young McGillicuddy journeyed to Buffalo where his stay was cut short by his purchase by Pittsburgh. He remained with Pittsburgh until 1896, serving as manager his last two seasons.

After one year in Buffalo where he went from Pittsburgh Connie was called to the city for which he was destined—Philadelphia—to assume command of the Athletics, newly admitted members of the American League. Here his success was instantaneous. He won pennants in 1902, 1905, 1910, 1911, 1913 and 1914. He captured the world series three times, whipping the Chicago Cubs in 1910 and the Giants in 1911 and 1913.

So after some 15 years of wandering in the wilderness Connie has his Athletics on top again—ready to renew a feud with the Cubs that had its last outbreak in 1910.

And you may rest assured as you watch the athletes toil for glory and money that the old gentleman in the Philadelphia shelter, waving his scorecard as the fighting gets hot, would not swap places with any man on earth.

ALL FURNACES NEED CHECKING DURING SUMMER

Heating Plants Perform More Satisfactorily If Repaired

"Winter is almost at hand again, and the time which remains for repairing the furnace for the duty it must perform during the cold months which are coming is short indeed," says Jesse H. Scarborough of Starbuck Bros., Ellsworth Ave. When the duty of the furnace is done, something during the first month in spring, it deserves attention and should have a good inspection in order to correct any trouble that may have crept out over the winter period.

"If your furnace has not already been inspected and repaired, there is a grave danger that you will take care of the trouble too late. A cold snap within the short space of another month is not at all improbable. Have your heating plant checked without further delay."

For economical furnace operation and economical house heating, a furnace must be in good condition and money expended in getting a furnace checked and repaired will be saved in the winter's coal bill.

One of the steadiest factories in Salem during the past years has been the National Sanitary Company, makers of bathtubs, sinks, lavatories, and all types of sanitary ware for bathrooms.
The above illustration shows the new $100,000 factory, which was constructed last year after the old plant was destroyed by fire.
Charles G. Burton is president of the company. The plant was retained in Salem through organized local effort despite opposition from other holdings, which attempted to secure it for Massillon.

Hanna Operates Fast Truck Service

High speed transportation is one of it all!

Industry's wheels are moving faster, the raw materials must be fed in more quickly and the finished product must be sent out into the highways and byways of commerce at quickened pace to keep step with the high speed of competition.

Transportation does play an important part in the endless cycle of production and consumption. Things have got to move fast—but they must go carefully, safely and without loss. That, too, is important.

M. W. Hanna, who operates a transfer truck service in this city can point back to a record of brilliant services in this respect. He can move things, move them fast and move them safely, and that counts.

Hanna has been operating his trucking service here for years. He has seen the passing of the horse-drawn wagon, which he has replaced with his service, horse-drawn vehicles, which aid him in special jobs. Nearly every business establishment in the city has him contracted to haul their supplies from station to store. The long-standing service has established him here as a pioneer in serviceable work.

Today—Daylight saving, with the clocks set back two hours instead of one is likely to be adopted in Japan next summer. The regular meeting of vice-ministers of the various ministries took up the matter in heated debate and finally reached an agreement in favor of the proposal. The reasons given were the promotion of health and efficiency.

New lawn sprinklers have been invented that can be operated simply by a series from one line of hose.

HERE'S SOMETHING NEW

A CHRYSLER DEVELOPMENT THAT REVOLUTIONIZES PERFORMANCE

SOMETHING startling has happened. Three sensational new Chryslers are abroad in the land. GAS BILL FORMS BASIS FOR SUIT

$5,888.53 Held Owing To Firm Supplying Company Fuel

Lisbon, Sept. 11.—Suit to recover $5,888.53 claiming owing for a commercial gas account has been filed in common pleas court by the Manufacturers Light and Heat company against Harry Peach of East Liverpool, Brookes & Thompson being counsel for the utility concern.

The petition recites that it furnished the Adamant Porcelain company natural gas from Dec. 1, 1927, until June 30, 1928. The account then owing being $4,830.92. At that time the company made an agreement with the defendant that it should pay for its natural gas in advance, and also make partial payment on the old account.

Gas was denied the plant Dec. 8, 1928, when Peach wrote the company advising that if the gas would again be supplied that he would assume the responsibility of the account owing by the Adamant Porcelain company. Abiding by this letter, the company again turned the gas into the plant, and the petition now recites that Peach has failed to comply with his agreement. It is also further set up, that at the time the debt was contracted the Adamant Porcelain company was insolvent, its property covered by mortgages and involved in debt in the sum approximately $105,000.
